Keepmoat promoting 'Love and Tolerance' across Luton

Keepmoat has been delighted to support Lea Manor High School's 'Love & Tolerance project'. This ongoing project aims to celebrate cultural diversity and promote positive values in Luton schools and throughout the town.

Lea Manor students and the local community created a series of art installations to create a culture wall which decorates the Keepmoat hoarding surrounding the Marsh Farm regeneration site.

The culture wall will be a permanent display over the lifetime of the refurbishment, providing a colourful and inspirational backdrop to the works, to be enjoyed by the whole community. The intention is for the wall to expand both locally and nationally, as more local students and members of the community share their ideas about what love and tolerance means to them.

The art work was revealed following a ceremony attended by the Mayor of Luton, students and the local community.

"We are very excited about the opportunity to work with Keepmoat as part of this ongoing project. Our first few events have been a great success and we look forward to continuing the project for the weeks, months and years ahead, uniting students, schools and communities in Luton and beyond through love and tolerance."
